SECTION E : Comprehension (5 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. Choose the correct answer and shade its number on the OAS provided.

U Mong Wing has been suffering from cerebral palsy since she was a baby. She spent most of her time sleeping and resting in bed. With the help of physiotherapists from Handicap International and the support of her parents, this little Burmese girl is finally able to walk.

More than 14,000 refugees live in the Umpien Mai camp in the Phob Phra region. Among them are U Mong Wing and her parents. This little Burmese girl was only a few months old when she became the victim of a violent fever which caused her brain damage. Up to the age of three, U Mong Wing was unable to walk. Her parents were distraught with grief.

In September 2000, a physiotherapist was put in charge of U Mong Wing and the lengthy task of bringing the child out of her inertia began. Every day she was made to do rehabilitation exercises under the attentive gaze of her mother who, at the same time, was learning these important movements.

After six months of exercises and games, U Mong Wing was finally able to move, to turn herself onto her side and to crawl, to the utter joy of her parents who saw their little daughter come to life again and blossom. Handicap International also provided her with a walking frame with a leather seat. With advice from the physiotherapists and the devotion of her parents, the young girl is gradually learning to stand.

Today, even if U Mong Wing can only express herself through cries and laughter, the time when she lay in bed, unable to move, is long gone! Her parents are now more determined than ever to see her walk without the frame, first with the help of an adult, then eventually by herself. They know that their time spent on their child would not turn to waste.

Adapted from 'U Mong Wing, learning to walk in Thailand' by Handicap International

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. Write your answers in complete sentences.

"Daddy, how much do you make an hour?" With a timid voice and idolising eyes, the little boy greeted his father as he returned from work.

Greatly surprised, but giving his boy a glaring look, the father said, "Look son, why do you want to know? Don't bother me now. I'm tired."

"But Daddy, just tell me please! How much do you make an hour?" the boy insisted.

The father gave up and replied, "Forty dollars an hour."

"Okay, Daddy. Could you lend me $20?" the boy asked. Showing his anger, the father yelled, "So that was the reason you asked me how much I earn, right? Go to sleep and don't bother me anymore!" The little boy went sadly to his bedroom.

It was already dark and the father was thinking about what he had said earlier to his son. Maybe, he thought, his son wanted to buy something. Finally, trying to ease his mind, the father went to his son's bedroom. "Are you asleep, son?" asked the father.

"No, Daddy. Why?" replied the boy, partially asleep.

"Here's the money you asked for earlier," the father said.

"Thanks Daddy!" rejoiced the son, while putting his hand under his pillow and removing some money. "Now I have enough! I have forty dollars!" the boy exclaimed to his father, who was gazing at his son in confusion.

"Daddy, could you sell me one hour of your time?"

The father was heartbroken when he heard his son's request. He immediately hugged him and decided to spend more time with his son in future.
