Two years ago, on 1-May 2008, I had a heart-stopping experience. I was twelve years old then. On that day, my father called me while I was in school. He said that my 15-year-old sister, Stella had met with an accident. She had been crossing the road when she was knocked down by a car. The car had sped off without stopping. My heart sank. I told my teacher about the emergency situation at home before leaving by the back gate for my flat which was a stone's throw away. 5

When I got home, my father was already waiting for me. He was visibly upset. My mother, he said, had gone on ahead to the hospital with the ambulance. Together, we hailed a taxi and rushed to the hospital. The ride there seemed to last an eternity. 10

On reaching the hospital, my parents and I rushed to the Accident and Emergency Department and asked for my sister. My mother was a frightening sight. Her hair was dishevelled and her face was tear-stained. She was standing next to Stella's bed. With her eyes closed, Stella looked peacefully asleep. Only the beeping of the heart monitor, to which she was hooked up to, could be heard. Several tubes were inserted into her arms. All of us were worried and we feared the worst. 15

Then the doctor came in with the X-ray report. Stella, he said, was very fortunate. The huge padded haversack as well as her school project, a combination of which, probably prevented her from sustaining more serious injuries. Stella suffered a mild concussion, and had only a few bad bruises. That, the doctor said, was a miracle. As if on cue, my sister, stirred and groaned softly. Her eyes fluttered open and she smiled weakly. "I'm..not dead yet, you know..." Stella went on to make a speedy recovery. 20

- (1) going very fast
- (2) driven by a young man
- (3) a hit-and-run accident

- (1) 'seemed to last an eternity'
- (2) 'had decided to wait for me'
- (3) 'rushed out of the back gate'
- (4) 'just a stone's throw away' ()

16 When the writer and his father saw Stella, they _____.

- (1) thought they had arrived too late and she had died
- (2) were shocked by the beeping sound of her heart monitor
- (3) thought that she was in a serious condition and might die

(You'll be surprised at how fit and healthy you can become within weeks of starting an exercise programme. 5

If you do not like jogging or gardening, you can have a beach picnic or camp. There are many places in Singapore where you can go camping or simply have a picnic. One such place is East Coast Parkway. You have to apply for a camping permit by writing to the Singapore Sports Council if you intend to camp there, though. 10

At the beach, you can swim or play beach volleyball. However, if you prefer less vigorous activities, you may comb the beach for colourful seashells or even try building sandcastles. This latter activity can be a challenging workout for the muscles too. Combine this with a healthy lunch of fruit and salads and you are on the way to becoming healthier than you would be by not doing anything at all. 15

There are many other ways to keep healthy. If you are a nature-lover, you can always take a hike around MacRitchie Reservoir with family or friends. Look out for the inhabitants of the place such as monkeys, lizards butterflies, tree squirrels and so on. 20
