Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

My four friends and I had come across a loose floor board at the back of the classroom. One day, we forced it up with the blade of a pocket knife and discovered a big hollow space underneath. This, we decided, would be our secret hiding place for sweets and other small treasures. Every afternoon, when the last lesson was over, the five of us would wait until the classroom had emptied. Then, we would lift up the floor board and examine our secret collection, perhaps adding to it or taking something away.

5

One day, when we lifted it up, we found a dead mouse lying among our treasures. It was an exciting discovery. Tom took it out by its tail and waved it in front of our faces. "What shall we do with it?" he cried.

10

"It stinks!" someone shouted. "Throw it out of the window quick!"

"Hold on a tick," I said. "Don't throw it away."

Tom hesitated. They all looked at me. That was when I shared my idea on the great and daring Mouse Plot. It was my moment of brilliance and glory.

"Why don't we," I said, "slip it into one of Mrs Pratchett's jars of sweets? Then when she puts her dirty hand in to grab a handful, she'll grab a stinky dead mouse instead."

15

The other four stared at me in wonder. Then, as the idea began to sink in, they all started grinning. They cheered me and danced around the classroom.

Section F: Comprehension Open-Ended (5 x 2 marks)

Read the passage below and answer Questions 36 to 40.

Alex woke up at half past twelve and found it difficult to go back to sleep. This was the result of not doing anything vigorous the whole day to make him tired. He was not allowed to leave without the doctor's permission and it had been one week. Nevertheless, Alex put on a pair of slippers and left his room. The thought of going to the convenience store across the street uplifted his mood.

5

There was no sign of anyone along the way. Alex was determined to reach the main reception counter with its sliding glass doors. Beyond the glass panels was the street with people and cars. As it was late, there was just a receptionist named James at the counter.

Alex chose to use the staircase instead. He was afraid that the noise of the bell from the elevator as it arrived would give him away. He walked down the stairs to the first floor. From where he was, Alex could see James sitting behind his desk. Alex was about to walk down the last few steps when suddenly, the front doors slid open.

Taking a step back, Alex hid in the shadows. Now he could watch everything that was happening, unobserved. Four men in their late twenties came in. Alex wondered who could possibly be visiting the hospital at that time of the night. From where he was, Alex could not make out their faces very clearly, but he felt there was something strange about them. He waited patiently as James attended to the four men.
